Glen Canyon News Release

Public Scoping Begins for Revisions to Uplake Development Concept Plan

Page, Ariz. – Glen Canyon National Recreation Area is initiating an Environmental Assessment (EA) for revisions to the Uplake Development Concept Plan (DCP). The original plan was released to the public in July 2006 and approved by the National Park Service (NPS) in January 2007. A new EA is necessary to address a proposed expansion of concessioner operations by adding fifty-five new rental slips and/or buoys at Bullfrog and/or Halls Crossing.

The NPS is soliciting public comments during this scoping period. The public is invited to help identify any issues, concerns or potential alternatives for the planning process and analysis. The EA will then evaluate potential impacts to the natural and human environment as a result of the proposed action.

Comments may be submitted online at http://parkplanning.nps.gov/glca or by mail to: Uplake DCP EA, P.O. Box 1507, Page, AZ 86040. Additional information about the project is also available at http://parkplanning.nps.gov/glca. All public scoping comments must be received by July 7, 2008.
